Short, But Sweet

Although this week was only two days long, it was full of learning and fun!

We had a special guest teacher this week! We joined our buddies in 1st grade and Mrs. Beyer for a lesson all about our skeleton by Mr. Frye, a 4th grade parent.

We also became real weather forecasters! We learned how to look at our data, analyze weather maps, and use our knowledge about weather to come up with a prediction. We turned these into a written forecast. Next we will practice them, and then record them next Friday.

In addition to our weekly study of current events, through Scholastic News Magazines, we also worked a bit more on our Native mini-books. These are to be completed and turned in by Monday for those not done yet.

Our 4th Math Unit has gotten off to a great start! We are exploring fractions and decimals. We are using base-ten blocks to help understand these concepts. Ask your child what those are!

We watched the film version of Stone Fox! We used a venn diagram to compare and contrast the two forms of this story. We also finished our Response to Literature for this book, and shared them with the class.

We are completely done with our pumpkin stories! They are published and ready to read! Way to go, fourth-graders! Look for the yellow letter in today's green folder. It has information about our next writing project, and it involves YOU!

We spent some time this week looking at Psalm 136, since it is a perfect example of how to thank and praise God. We wrote our own version of this Psalm. We want to remember to thank God daily for His amazing blessings!

Speaking of being thankful...We have such a wonderful family here at Forest Hills. Thank you for everything you do and for who you are!

Homework

*Thanks for being patient
with the changes in homework!*

Continue with just some regular practice in facts, memory and reading, so as not to get rusty.

Next week homework will resume to a normal schedule. So, in your folders you'll find next week's memory and math home-

work.

Enjoy the Thanksgiving
holiday with your family,
friends and God!

Reminder!

Report Cards will be available for pick up
in the front office
Monday, December
5th!
