

Kindergarten News

Auction Basket Competition

Remember to bring in your auction basket items for Kindergarten. You may drop them off in the boxes in the main hallway. Lets be the 1st class to reach 100% participation...we are already on our way there!

There is still time to support the Malaria net effort...send in your spare change and dollars to help this great cause!

NEEDED:

Old picture calendar pages about 12x12 size. See the detailed noted from Mrs. Moeller for more information!!

I have had Gods help to this very day.
~Acts: 26:22

I want to thank all the parents who drove and chaperoned on our field trip to the Children's Museum on Tuesday. The children experienced many wonderful things that will enrich their learning.

In Daily 5 Literacy we are working on how to retell a story . This is an important part of comprehending a story because it helps us to organize our thoughts and see how events are related. The students will have a chance to practice retelling a story during their share time at the end of February. Each student will pick a favorite story and tell us how it starts, what happens in the middle and how it ends. Students are welcome to bring in the book to show as well.

I am looking for old picture calendars, about 12 X 12 size. Larger or smaller will work as well. Please be careful as to what is written on the calendar itself. We will be using the pictures in a future writing project starting in March. Bring them in whenever is convenient. Thank You!

Mrs. Moeller

What a crazy week! My time as teacher in Kindergarten is quickly coming to an end. As an update...my body continues to prepare for labor and it seems like this baby could come any day with changes I am experiencing, but that could just be wishful thinking!! My last day is Friday, Feb. 3rd...assuming Carly doesn't decide to come early!

The students have continued their discussion of hibernation and had a chance to finish a book about animals that hibernate in winter.

We are working on telling number stories in math and determining if the story is a plus or minus problem. Next week we will transfer this skill to writing number stories that we tell.

~Mrs. Heldt

Habit 3 teaches us to make priorities, set a schedule and have a plan. We continue to practice these skills when we work in our Daily 5 choices for Math and Literacy each day and as we work to achieve our goals for reading and writing. Determining what is most important is sometimes hard for us to do! The more we practice the better we become at this habit. You can practice this skill at home with time management, chores, wish lists for toys we want to get, homework, and how we want to spend our time. Get creative and have fun Putting First Things First!