There is no cost for students, but chaperones will have a fee of $4.50 made payable to FHLS and returned to school with the permission slip on Monday the 9th. Please note that this is an all day field trip and students will need a sack lunch as we will be eating at the museum.

Speak, Lord, for your servant is listening.
~1 Samuel 3:9

Welcome back! The children have come back to school and jumped right back into the routine. The break didn't slow them down at all.

As you know my due date is quickly approaching and my time as your teacher this year is coming to a close. In order to assist with the transition, Mrs. Moeller and I will begin job sharing starting next week. Mrs. Moeller will be teaching in the morning and I will be teaching in the afternoon.

This job share will provide the perfect transition for the students as they acclimate to a new teacher in the classroom. Next week, Mrs. Moeller will have the opportunity to assess the students individually as she begins to learn about your child as a reader and writer. I will be available to assist her as needed over the next month before she becomes teacher full-time.

Our prayer is that this will be a smooth transition for everyone

Next week is the kick-off assembly for January's habit of the month. This month we will be studying Habit 3: First Things First. We will also be reviewing the stories for all the habits as we refresh our memories on how to live these habits daily in our interactions with others.

(families, students, and teachers) and I thank you for your understanding as this was a short notice change.

We are beginning a thematic study of winter and hibernation. We will be exploring the winter season and what it brings, as well as various interesting winter animals.

In Literacy, we have discussed why authors write stories and discovered they write so others can read them. We have discussed and practice writing stories this week that others will be able to read. We continue to practice stretching words and recording all the sounds we hear.

In Math, we explored the calculator this week and have continued our discussion of teen numbers and place values. The students are learning a new game to help solidify knowledge of teen numbers.

Blessing on your weekend,
~Mrs. Heldt
